

It's bad enough that the music so many of today's youth listen to is fraught with foul language that is either not or poorly bleeped out, but the DJs' language is abominable! I never thought I would hear a radio personality, on air, address a woman as the b-word, refer to a person's posterior as the a-word, or casually use the Lord's name in vain.

How am I supposed to raise responsible and respectful children if the organization that regulates what they hear through the airwaves is filled with blatantly disrespectful garbage?
